4. The premium offered by the fair cannot be changed by any judge or superintendent.

5. Judges must not award prizes to an unworthy exhibit. It is the intention of management that no premium or distinction of any kind shall be given to any animal that is not deserving. This rule must be strictly adhered to whether or not there is competition.
6. The judges and persons acting as clerks to the judge must use special care after the award has been made, to see that the name is properly entered in the record book and on the premium voucher, for it is upon this entry that the payment of premium is made.
7. The judge, superintendent, or clerk recording the awards of the department, must sign the record book and premium voucher at the close of each class immediately after all awards in said class have been made.
8. The entry clerks shall under no circumstances allow the award records to go from their possession, or to be inspected by anyone, except authorized officers until entries of judges' decisions have been made, the records audited and closed.
9. The judge should read the general rules and all special rules under the heading of the department or class in which they are to serve, and especially note and mark those rules bearing on the classes to adjudicate by them. Ignorance of rules is inexcusable with a judge.
10. Objection to any person serving as judge must be made to the Fair Director in writing prior to any award made, giving good and sufficient reason thereof.
11. If a protest or grievance is made, it should be made in writing to the Fair Director, along with a $50 cash deposit. It will then be taken to the board for a ruling. If the protest or grievance is not sustained, the deposit will be forfeited.
12. If it be ascertained that any exhibitor has, in an ungentle manner, taken exception to the judgment or ruling of a judge, employee, official of the Weber County Fair, or the board, can bar the said person from competing for a premium or exhibiting on the grounds until he has made proper apology and is reinstated by the board.
